

Artist Statement

---

Jason Lockyer's work is an investigation into the human condition. Jason explores these themes by creating an environment, or stage where ordinary elements can become extraordinary. Jason achieves this by creating moving collages that explore this contrived environment. It is his aim to isolate mundane moments of time and magnify their importance by using insects, birds, and elements of the landscape as his visual language. A large source of inspiration found in Jason's work comes from growing up in the suburbs of Philadelphia where he and his father (a scientific illustrator) shared a passion for nature and the arts.

Jason works in a variety of mediums including: painting, video, and installation.

Jason Lockyer is an artist from Media, PA and is currently living and working in Los Angeles. Jason graduated from the Tyler School of Art with a BFA in painting and studied abroad with the Temple University Rome program.